Dr. Eric Jay Rosser, Superintendent of Schools

Introduction

Dr. Eric Jay Rosser, Superintendent of Schools, is an accomplished administrator with educational leadership, school turnaround, and operational management experience at the State Education Agency and Local Education Agency levels. He has a proven history of leading, managing, and coaching educational leaders and teachers, and designing and supervising effective instructional and student support initiatives.

Dr. Rosser has been involved with school turnaround initiatives since 2007, leading efforts at the local and state level and working directly with school principals in developing and strengthening academic and student support programs to meet the evolving needs of all learners. As a system's thinker, Dr. Rosser has overseen the implementation of reform initiatives in the Buffalo Public Schools, including the co-development of the District's Student Success Plan and many of the strategic initiatives of the Buffalo Public Schools' New Education Bargain, the system's comprehensive reform model. In his previous position as Deputy Assistant Superintendent for Elementary and Secondary Education of OSSE, Dr. Rosser oversaw the implementation of the District of Columbia's State Accountability School District Turnaround Model. He also led the establishment of the accountability system for early learning facilities and programs throughout the District of Columbia. In Atlanta, Dr. Rosser was responsible for the District's signature reform initiative designed to increase the academic outcomes of over 13,000 K-12 students in the school system's lowest performing schools.

Dr. Rosser understands all facets of school district operations. His unrelenting and courageous advocacy for children and families, ability to develop productive collaborative relationships with school leaders and community partners, affability, unwavering integrity, and commitment to all students distinguishes him as a Champion of Children.

Eric Jay Rosser, Ph.D.
